

Questions for provocation:

What did you hear most clearly?

What connects with you in your context?

What creates tension for you in your context?

What challenges you from what you heard?

What possibilities arise for you from what you heard?

Remember: This is not about reporting back after discussions but to guide you in determining which domain or path you will focus on for your Friday presentation.